

SAN DOMINGO FALLS TO THE JIMINEZ PEOPLE

The Revolution Ends With Capture of the Capital City of the Republic.

Something About Career of Typical Adventurer Who After Many Vicissitudes Becomes President of the Dominican State.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLEGRAMS.)

CAPE HAYTIEN, Nov. 11.—It is reported that San Domingo has capitulated to the revolutionists and that Jiminez has been proclaimed President. The revolution is probably ended.

JIMINEZ.

Juan Isidor Jiminez, one of the fire-brand ex-presidents of the Republic of Santo Domingo, for whom the present revolution has been engineered, is a native of the island, is of Spanish descent, and is now nearly sixty years old. His father was the first president of Santo Domingo in 1849 but was forced to leave the island before his term of office was completed. Jiminez was a prosperous merchant of Monte Christi a few years ago and accumulated over a million dollars in the export trade, but his growing influence aroused the jealousy of Ulysses Heureaux, the president, and he and his family were exiled. He lived in Paris for awhile, then in Hamburg, and later in New York. In 1898 he got possession of the American steamship Flinta, armed and equipped for an expedition against the Spaniards in Cuba, and sailed from Mobile under the American flag, but instead of going to Cuba he sailed for Santo Domingo where he had a revolution organized. A telegram sent by him from Cape Haytien, Hayti, was intercepted and when he landed at Monte Christi with eleven men he did not find his revolutionary forces ready to meet him, and he alone of the party escaped death or capture. How he secured possession of the Flinta has never been explained. He escaped on the vessel to Inagua, a British possession, where he was arrested and tried for a violation of the neutrality laws, but escaped on the technicality that he was returning from and not engaged in a revolution. In 1899 he organized a revolution from Havana against President Heureaux and gave the American authorities in Cuba much concern. He was detained in Cienfuegos and again in Santiago, but in the absence of any proof of unlawful action was allowed to continue on his way. Heureaux had been assassinated in the meantime and when Jiminez landed in Santo Domingo he was received joyfully by the people. After the death of Heureaux a provisional government was formed by General Horatio Vasquez. An election was ordered and Jiminez became president with Vasquez as his vice-president. In 1902 Vasquez turned against Jiminez and led a successful revolution. Jiminez fled to New York. Early this year the Vasquez government was routed by the former friends of Jiminez, with General Wos Gil at their head. Jiminez went to Santo Domingo but Wos Gil was made president. Now Jiminez is reported to have won the reins of power from those who headed a revolution while posing as his friends and ostensibly in his interests.

RAPID TRANSIT CONSTRUCTION

The directors of the Rapid Transit Company held a meeting yesterday and decided to continue the construction of the Nuanu street railroad as far mauka as the Royal Mausoleum. The line has already been laid as far as the W. W. Hall place and it will probably be completed to the foot of Judd hill within a week.

J. A. Gilman resigned from the position of secretary and director of the Company on the grounds that he had been elected a county supervisor, and under the County Act the supervisors are given charge of the streets of the city and in this way the Rapid Transit company would necessarily in the course of its construction of lines have dealings with the county supervisors.

George P. Thielens was elected a director and secretary to fill the place vacated by Mr. Gilman.

The Japanese colony of Honolulu has a fund amounting to about $300 for assisting its poorer members home to Japan in case of war.

APOSTLE HEBER J. GRANT ARRESTED FOR POLYGAMY

SALT LAKE, Nov. 11.—Apostle Grant of the Mormon church has been arrested for polygamy.

Apostle Heber J. Grant is one of the biggest guns in the Mormon presidency at Salt Lake City. He is known as a distinguished prelate of the church and one of its most brilliant orators. In the last few years he has been very active in the campaign to extend the Mormon faith to every portion of the world and two years ago passed through Honolulu in making a short trip to Japan to put the mission work there on a firm basis. He is one of the most widely known insurance men of the West and in both business and religious matters is considered a rustler.

Japanese Servant Robbed.

The Japanese quarters on the premises of Philip Dodge, Kuakini street, were ransacked last evening while the Japanese servant was attending a cooking school. The robbers secured a trunk containing silk kimonos and other wearing material.

THE DUKE OF ROXBURGHE GETS HIS HEIRESS-BRIDE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLEGRAM.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The wedding of the Duke of Roxburghe and Miss May Goelet was a gorgeous ceremony. The police had difficulty in restraining the mob of women who surrounded the carriage to see the bride.

THE DUCHESS OF ROXBURGHE.

Miss May Goelet, the most courted girl in the world and the richest girl in her own right in America, will henceforth be known as the Duchess of Roxburghe. The Duchess is worth in her own right about $30,000,000.

It is eight years since the courting of Miss Goelet began. In that time the twenty men who have been most conspicuous among her suitors have all had interesting or remarkable adventures. Some have gone to war, some have died, some have become famous. The twenty were: The Duke of Roxburghe, the Grand Duke Boris of Russia, Prince Francis of Teck, the Prince Henri of Orleans, Prince Hugo of Hohenlohe, the Prince of Sagan, the Duke of Abruzzi, the Duke of Manchester, the Earl of Shaftesbury, Lord Ingestrie, Lord Dalmeny, the Hon. Lionel Rothschild, Captain Oswald Ames, Henry Cavendish, Lord Crichton, Paul Deschanel, Santos Dumont, Signor Marconi, Jacques Lebaudy and Craig Wadsworth.

Among them they possessed $81,000,000, this sum being divided among twelve of them, while the rest were virtually penniless. These twelve had fourteen splendid castles, palaces and villas in England, France and Germany.

Eight years ago when this universal international courtship began Miss Goelet was only seventeen years old. But with social talents and cleverness inherited from a mother of the noted R. T. Wilson family, and a perfect education, she took a leading place in society at once. The occasion on which she first attracted the attention of American society was at the wedding of Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt to the Duke of Marlborough in 1895, when she was a bridesmaid.

The new Duchess is slight, dark and very attractive. It is an exaggeration to say that she is strikingly handsome, as many have done. Two cynical society men were discussing the point, and one of them said:

"Would you call her face handsome?"

"Not exactly—but her fortune is," said the other.

Today at twenty-five the Duchess of Roxburghe is in absolute possession of $30,000,000 of New York real estate.

One of her earliest suitors was the Duke of Manchester. His engagement was actually announced by the London "Daily Telegraph." Mr. Ogden Goelet, who was then alive, told a reporter that he could never allow his daughter to marry a foreigner. It was later learned that Miss Goelet had voluntarily declined the Duke. After that he consoled himself for a time with journalism and next year eloped with Miss Zimmerman of Cincinnati—a marriage which has turned out quite happily.

Miss Goelet had suitors in the highest society of every European country. There was Prince Henri of Orleans, by far the most enterprising member of the dethroned royal family of France. He thought that Miss Goelet's $30,000,000 would help the royalist cause, but he sought it in vain. Then he tried to win fame as an explorer and died miserably in Tonkin.

The most illustrious of all by birth was the Grand Duke Boris, first cousin of the Czar of Russia. When he was staying with the Goelets at Newwoot Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish remarked that "everybody knew he was there to marry Miss Goelet and pay off his debts."

A most interesting suitor in France was the brilliant Paul Deschanel, now President of the Chamber of Deputies and regarded as the next President of the republic. He needed a rich wife badly in his political career, but he failed to win Miss Goelet.

Jacques Lebaudy, who is as rich as Miss Goelet, being the son of the greatest sugar refiner in France, has recently created himself Emperor of the Sahara. Miss Goelet might have been Empress.

In Italy an exalted suitor was the Duke of Abruzzi, cousin of the King of Italy. When he found that there was no hope for him he organized an expedition to the North Pole and scored the farthest North.

PANAMA REBELS CAPTURE A CITY WITHOUT A SHOT

A Commission Leaves Colon to Negotiate a Canal Treaty at Washington.

Germany Announces That She Will Not Interfere in the Affairs of the Isthmus—Other News by Cable.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLEGRAMS.)

COLON, Nov. 11.—The forces of the new republic have captured Bocas Del Toro without firing a shot.

PANAMA, Nov. 11.—A commission has left for Washington to negotiate a canal treaty.

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—Germany will not interfere in the affairs of the Isthmus of Panama.

Bocas Del Toro is a small town on the Isthmus that has played an important part in Panama revolutions. In June of last year the revolutionists captured the place after a heavy engagement. Later the government troops set out to recapture it. The rebels mined the streets and as the Colombian troops marched into the town these mines were exploded inflicting great slaughter on the government troops with the result that the place was left in the possession of the rebels until the whole rebellion was later crushed.

BRITISH HAVING TROUBLE WITH THE ARABIANS

ADEN, Nov. 11.—In an engagement with the natives of the Hinterland eight British were wounded. The native loss was heavy.

In the following out of the "Persian Gulf Doctrine," announced by Great Britain some time ago, the British have been making strong efforts to extend their influence in Arabia. England has defeated a large number of the tribes that have occupied the territory around Aden and in the vicinity of the Persian Gulf. The British policy is to secure control of all Arabia and then to repair the ancient irrigation works in the valley of the River Tigris.
